With unsteady gait and a clutched fag-end, Danny the Rake approached St. Peter. From a glance at Volume 1 of Danny's life. Peter knew that Danny was definitely bound for the smoking section (hell). But, before he had a chance to send him off, Danny reminded Peter of a certain courtyard denial—easily got by an embarrassed Peter.

Off to the four evangelists he went, for an appeal, as Peter suggested.

(After all you swear by their word.) Matthew tut-tutted at Danny's bad record.

But the Rake reminded Matthew of his tax collecting days.

Mark was reminded of the time he started a row between Barnabas and Paul.

John smiled as the Rake recalled how he was Jesus' favourite, frowning only when reminded of his Gethsemane slumber and his ambition to sit at Jesus' right hand. Luke was next, With hope etched on his face, the Rake addresses him. ' Only in you. Luke, do I meet the God who befriend sinners, a Father prodigal in love.

Surely there's a place for me? With a smile and a hug, Luke invited Danny in, to tell his story in heaven. You won't find Danny in the Gospel of Luke we hear each Sunday this coming year, but you will meet Danny's God. Read it: like Danny, your very life depends on it.
