Thought: The Pentecost Prism

I love analogies for the spiritual life taken from the natural world.

One is appropriate for the great feast of Pentecost this weekend.

Consider a glass prism through which natural light passes.

As it does so, the light refracts into the seven colours of the rainbow.

Similarly, when the light and grace of God comes to encounter our humanity, it refracts into seven gifts and twelve fruits of the Holy Spirit.

These are the gifts and fruits that manifest themselves in and through our humanity.

These are the gifts and fruits that make a difference to our nature and make themselves tangibly visible.

As St Irenaeus would say: 'The glory of God is the human person fully alive.'

(Fr. Billy Swan)
