In moments like these:

We're a little strange about conversion.

I'm sure Zacchaeus found it hard going even after Jesus – not many would accept his genuine change.

Here was a short man searching for higher values.

He was 'up a tree' in more ways than one.

His story reminds us that conversion happens – sometimes in an instant. An encounter, a word an incident can haunt and convert the hardened soul.

Jesus was 'passing through' Jericho. He had no plans to stop there seemingly. Often our part is to make a climate for conversion, to climb that tree, bring some vision into a situation.

To show that there is possibility. Conversion happens.

Don't give up on it.

(Fr. Tom Cox).
